"An Ounce of Prevention."

Why take the chances of a long spell of fever and an expensive doctor's bill, when a bottle of Dr. Keller's Mountain Sage Invigorator and a dose of Mountain Sage Liver Pills will, if taken in time, prevent it? Remember, an ounce of prevention in your case may be worth many pounds of cure. For sale by W. C. Spencer,

G. M. KELLER, M. D.

Dear Sir:—I lived in the mountains for eight years and thereby came to know the virtues of "Mountain Sage," having used it for fevers, chills, and biliousness; in fact when we felt sick in any way we were cured by the use of "Mountain Sage."

The Terrors of Asthma Gone.

Mr. Sampson of Hutchinson says:
"I had been a sufferer from asthma nine years and until I tried a bottle of your Mountain Sage Invigorator I had found nothing that would give me relief, or known what it was to have a peaceful night's rest in bed. In the last few weeks that I have been using the Invigorator, my condition has so much improved that I seem to have a new lease on life given me, and can hardly find words to express my gratitude for the relief your medicine has afforded. I wish all who suffer as I have may hear of your wonderful remedy." For sale by W. C. Spencer, Druggist.

Base Ball.

The game of base ball last Saturday between the Dennison and Meriden clubs on the home grounds was quite exciting, although not a well played game, and resulted in the visitors getting away with our boys by one run.
The score stood 10-9.

Obituary.

Died of hydrophobia at the residence of her parents Mr. and Mrs.
W. W. Peebler of Meriden Kansas, Stella Myrtle Peebler, aged 9 years 7 months and 26 days.

"A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled;
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.
God in his wisdom has recalled,
The boon his love has given;
And though the body
molders here,
The soul is safe in heaven."

A. E. DICKINSON, Pres.

Wedding Bells.

Married on the 19th. inst., at the residence of Rev. White, in Topeka, by that minister. Miss Katie J. May, of Jackson county, and Thos. H.
Stewart, of Topeka. The bride is the daughter of W. J. May, well known in this vicinity as one of our largest and most prosperous farmers and stock raisers. The groom is a well known and highly respected gentleman of Topeka, and is in the employ of the Santa Fe railroad company.
The happy pair will make their home in Topeka in the future.

After the wedding ceremony the young couple repaired to the home of the bride's parents, a number of the friends of the bride and groom assembled to tender them the usual compliment of a chatriari, but they were somewhat checkmated in their sport, by the father of the bride, who is somewhat of a practical joker. He captured their munitions of war by a strategic movement and vastly reduced their capacity to whoop 'er up as these things are usually done, and rather got the laugh on the serenad-ers.

Death From Hydrophobia.

It becomes our painful duty at this time to chronicle one of the saddest events that has ever transpired in our village—the death, from that most terrible of all maladies, hydrophobia, of Stella M. Peebler, the little daughter of our townsman, W. W. Peebler.
Stella and little Maudie Barr, while at play in the yard in front of Mr. Barr's residence on the 2nd. day of June last were attacked and severely bitten by a large dog belonging to Wm. Cook who resides about two miles south east of town. Several other girls of about Stella's age had left the yard but a few moments before the dog entered and made the attack. Stella was bitten in the calf of the leg, and Maudie Barr upon the brow over the left eye. The wounds healed kindly, although Maudie is seriously disfigured by the resulting scar. The dog after having bitten several animals, and several members of Mr.
Cook's family was finally killed, and after the wounds had all healed the circumstance which created so much excitement at the time, had ceased to be the subject of comment. The parents and friends of the bitten children had hoped that no serious consequences would result, and as time passed this hope was gradually growing into confidence. On Saturday, however, Stella complained of not feeling well, but as nothing suspicious was observed in her symptoms, the apparently slight indisposition was not regarded with any apprehension.
She was not materially worse on Monday morning, and went to school in the forenoon. She remained at home however, in the afternoon, and as she continued to grow worse the family physician was called on Tuesday morning. By this time characteristic symptoms were developed. The disease was readily recognized and appropriate treatment administered.
The characteristic symptoms though slight in the morning so clearly indicating the character of the malady, continued to increase in intensity notwithstanding the treatment, the vital powers became more and more exhausted, and between eight and nine o'clock p. m. the little sufferer passed away.
Death is the common lot of mankind.
It may be anticipated by every created intelligence, and the young as well as the old may, in accordance with the common experience of the world, expect its visitation. But a case like this, so unusual in its character, and depending upon such a cause, is of peculiar sadness, and the family have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community in this hour of deepest sorrow. None but those who have passed through a similar experience can ever know the depth of that sorrow, and none so fully realize how little of consolation there is in the sympathy and condolence of friends.
It is a satisfaction of course to know that friends do sympathize, but there will be none the less heart aches on that account. Time alone will kindly heal the wound and the intensity of the present passionate grief will give place to a more subdued sorrow in the years to come.
